Trip reports:

We found that our favorite experience was at Naboisho Conservancy. We enjoyed our "tent", central living & dining areas, the Maasai guiding, the communal meals (lunches were a highlight), & the genuine warmth of the staff especially Clea & Moses. We took advantage of their Night Game Drive & their Walking Tour with Roelof. Both were highlights of the trip. We really appreciated Roelof's extensive knowledge.

Our last three nights were spent at Kwihala at Ruaha national park. We had morning and afternoon game drives. The park is very pretty with hills, interesting rocks, baobabs and palm trees. The highlight was a pride of lions with four Cubs sunning themselves and playing in the dry riverbed.

After the northern Serengeti, Ruaha and Selous were a lovely contrast. Mwagusi Camp in Ruaha was very enjoyable: our guide Geoffrey was outstanding. We had an unexpected wild dog experience, a fine leopard, the lion who came to our bush breakfast, repeated visits to a very active hyena den, and an amazing lion pride enjoying their own dinner. Breakfast with Chris Fox on our last morning at Mwagusi was an added pleasure.

Last but not least, Siwandu Camp in Selous was fantastic. George and Emma were fine hosts, our guide Kim was exceptional, and Matthew who made all of our meals a joy, including ugali – the traditional way and our bush breakfast after a walking safari. Boating on the lake also made for a very different experience, with plenty of crocodiles and hippos added to the usual mix.
