MUSANZE TOURS

Following your trek, we recommend you savor the memories of the morning hike and gorilla encounter with a relaxing afternoon at leisure visiting the farmlands, villages and markets that surround Kinigi and Musanze towns. A walk or drive along these rural roads is where one can really enjoy 'street level culture', with a fascinating blend of farmers, businessmen, bars and shops.

For those interested in a more structured activity, we could arrange the following:

Iby'Iwacu Cultural Village

The village is located near Volcanoes National Park and welcomes visitors to explore the local lifestyle with a variety of activities. The community directly benefits from this tourism-based initiative, improving their economy and standard of living as well as incentive for gorilla conservation.

Activities include a walk through the village; meeting a local healer or clinic to learn about medicinal trees and shrubs and their uses; visit a local school (if you are a teacher, you are welcome to lead a lesson); watch how bananas are brewed into local banana and sorghum beer (and enjoy a taste), gather around the campfire, known as igitaramo, where stories told and dances performed; join the locals in harvesting and preparing food.

Cost: approximately $45.00 per person (depending on the size of your party. Any additional costs will be payable directly)

Mountain Gorilla Veterinary Project

The project is dedicated to saving the mountain gorilla one patient at a time. Based in Musanze, the international veterinary team, known as “Gorilla Doctors,” regularly monitors the health of the gorillas and treats individuals with life-threatening illness or injury whenever possible. The Gorilla Doctors also help rescue and treat mountain gorillas orphaned by poachers. Your visit at the center is 1.5 hours in length. You tour the facility with one of the onsite veterinarians and speak to researchers. This is a private excursion and ideal for those interested in science and research.

Cost: $500.00 per visit (this donation fee directly supports the project). Morning or afternoon tour.

VOLCANOES NATIONAL PARK TOURS

Dian Fossey Grave Trek

The walk sets off at the same time as the gorilla treks at Park Head Quarters at 7:00am for a 7:30am start. You and your Guide will then transfer to the trail head. Trek or hike to Karisoke scientific base, established by Dian Fossey in the saddle area between two volcanoes; Mt Karisimbi and Mt Bisoke (from which the name Karisoke is derived). The camp site stands at an altitude of around 3000m (over 9000 ft) and was abandoned during the unrest of the 1990's. All that remains today is the graveyard where several of Dian Fossey's favorite gorillas (including Digit) were buried. Dian Fossey is also buried near the graves of her beloved gorillas.

Dian Fossey carried out her studies on the mountain gorillas for 18 years. She was murdered on the 27th of December 1985 and buried where the Karisoke Research Center stood. The excursion will provide excellent background information and this is a wonderful site to see. The trail leading to her tomb is a beautiful yet challenging 1 hour 45 minutes hike up slopes where orchids, birdlife and even occasional mountain gorillas can be seen (total excursion time is 3-4 hours).

Cost: $75.00 per person

Golden Monkey Trekking

Dwarfed in size and reputation by the Gorillas, Rwanda's golden monkey is well worth discovering.

Its attractive pelt and relative accessibility has put it on the endangered list published by the IUCN. These extremely playful and agile primates thrive in the Volcanoes National Park and make for fascinating (but strenuous) viewing. The golden monkey is a subspecies of the blue monkey found only in the bamboo forests of the volcanic mountain chain that forms a part of the boundary between Rwanda, Uganda, and DRC. It's a natural history experience that anyone planning to trek gorillas in Rwanda should consider. It is a perfect option for younger natural history enthusiasts under the age limit of 15 years required to trek gorillas.

According to the African Wildlife Foundation: the golden monkey (Cercopithecus mitis kandti) weighs 10-25 pounds and has a golden body, cheeks, and tail with contrasting black limbs, crown, and tail-end. Little is presently known about the ecological requirements of the golden monkey, and the subspecies population numbers have never been determined. Sharing the lofty montane forests of the Virungas with its great ape relatives, this primate faces some of the same threats as gorillas, including snares set for small antelopes, human encroachment, and people entering their habitat to collect wood.

A visit to the golden monkeys is very different experience from gorilla viewing. The golden monkeys live mainly in the bamboo thickets and are smaller and harder to spot, but extremely rewarding once found as the monkeys react and interact differently; they will keep on playing hide-and-seek much to the delight of the visitors. There are hundreds of Golden Monkeys in Volcanoes National Park.

However there are 2 habituated troops that have 80 members each and most probably the number has increased since the last census these are the ones guests trek to. A maximum of 40 persons can trek golden monkeys per day.

Your day begins with an early morning wake-up (approx 6:00am) and then a transfer (approx 6:30am) to the park gate to commence the trek (6:30am). Here you will meet your tracker and the day will be spent tracking the Golden Monkeys.

Return to your lodge for lunch.

Your viewing of the Golden Monkeys will be limited to a maximum of only one hour.

Cost $100.00 per person

Visit the Ellen DeGeneres Campus of the Diane Fossey Gorilla Fund

The Karisoke Research Center in Rwanda's Volcanoes National Park was founded by Dian Fossey on 24 September 1967, to study the endangered mountain gorillas. Fossey located the camp in Rwanda's Virunga volcanic mountain range, between Mt. Karisimbi and Mt. Visoke, and named it by combining the names of the two mountains. The original buildings were destroyed during the genocide and civil war. New facilities were constructed in Musanze.

Recently renamed the Ellen DeGeneres Campus, the research center is currently the world's best hope for the survival of endangered mountain gorillas and their ecologically critical habitat. Thanks to its active conservation program, the mountain gorillas of the Virungas are the only great ape species to have increased in number in recent decades. Today the Gorilla Fund conducts extensive daily protection and monitoring of the mountain gorillas; numerous science and research projects; various education initiatives; and community health and development projects.

It currently employs more than 100 staff members, the great majority of whom are Rwandan. Over half of these are involved in research, protection and monitoring of the gorillas. Others are engaged in biodiversity and socioeconomic research, education, health, and administration.

Self-guided tours allow you to experience the many immersive activities in our public exhibit — the Cindy Broder Conservation Gallery. Here you will find a 360-degree theater, replica of Dian Fossey’s original cabin, a cafe and lots more. You can also learn about the region’s biodiversity while enjoying our many nature trails. Pre-booking is not required for self-guided tours.

Cost: A suggested donation of $20/adult is requested, with funds supporting conservation efforts

Behind-the-scenes tours allow you to enjoy a full tour of the campus with a Fossey Fund senior staff member as your guide. This option includes visiting the public exhibit as well as a tour behind the scenes, where you will gain a greater understanding of the multifaceted work being done to protect the gorillas. These tours can be scheduled for any time of day, with the last booking time at 3 p.m (excludes weekends). This tour generally takes about two hours and requires pre-booking.

Cost: A minimum donation of $800.00 per group

Silverback Sundowner tours are special evening gatherings featuring breathtaking views of the mountains, light refreshments and visits with Fossey Fund staff! Guests are invited to tour the public exhibit first and then meet up with our gorilla experts in the Virunga Overlook. Here you can share experiences and talk with our staff to learn more. A fine selection of non-alcoholic drinks, wine, and light snacks are included. Silverback Sundowner tours take place from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. and require pre-booking.

Cost: Donation of $100.00 per person with a minimum donation of $500.00 for groups of fewer than five people

NYUNGWE FOREST

Nyungwe Canopy Walk

Nyungwe Canopy Walk is a thrilling adventure through the tropical Nyungwe Forest. You begin at the Uwinka Reception Center and walk ground-level along the forest trail before taking to the canopy walk where you will get to the top of the tree canopies (approx. 164 feet in the air). During the two-hour walk, you will experience the scenic beauty of the oldest Afro-Montane forest, lush vegetation such as purple orchids and the possible sightings of a variety of monkeys including L'Hoest, blue, colobus and red-tailed monkeys. The highlight is viewing Nyungwe's Ishuno Waterfall.

Although considered "Easy" in terms of the hike, this walk is not recommended for those with a fear of heights. Minimum age is 6 years old, bring a raincoat, hiking shoes are recommended and can be rented at the reception center. Start times 8:00am, 10:00am, 1:00pm or 3:00pm

Cost: $70.00 per person
